

If I remember correctly, XM Radio is a service that I subscribe to and pay for. Why is this any different than cable TV, in that the content is provided with my monthly payment? I realize that there has to be some sort of oversight from the Federal government, but isn't competition what this service is all about? Lay off of the operations trying to provide good services, and stick to regulating the airwaves or clean up the likes of Howard Stern.